Olschafskie is well known for his 'urban photography', in-camera images at carefully found and selected locations. In this series Olschafskie takes 'pictures of pictures', photographs of deep spaces built with reflection, action, chance, and intention. These are rich and complex images that dazzle with light, color, and illusion. For this exhibit Olschafskie couples these color photographs with new AI generated photographs. He claims a sameness between the construction of both in the ways they are produced; inherently from within a knowledge base, transmuting the substance of gender, beauty, and identity, shifting ... all of these components working to lift the portraits into a world of wonder.
